

Bedtime Story For the Little Ones

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PARIS GREEN.

BY HOWARD R. GARIS.

"D EAR me! It certainly is too bad!" exclaimed Mr. Long-ears, whose other name was Uncle Wiggily. He was standing on the front porch of his hollow stump farm house as he said this one day.

"What's too bad?" asked Nurse Jane. "Puzzly Wuzzly, the minkrat lady, who gnawed red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutches out of cornstalks for the bunny gentleman. 'What's too bad, Wuzzly?'"

"The potato bugs," answered the rabbit.

"Potato bugs?" asked the minkrat lady. "Do you mean they bit you?"

"Well, no, not exactly that," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "You see they bite the potato vines, eat the leaves, the vines die and that spoils the potatoes. That's what I say is too bad."

"I say the same thing, also," cried Nurse Jane. "I can't make potato pancakes if there are no potatoes. But what about the bugs?"

"I'm going to fix them," said Uncle Wiggily, slowly blinking one eye and blinking the other. "I'm going to Paris green 'em!"

"Paris green 'em?" repeated Nurse Jane. "Do you mean you are going to send them to Paris?"

"Oh, no, Paris green is a powder you put on the potato vines. It is almost the same color as the vines and the bugs don't know the difference. They eat the vine, chew the Paris green powder up with it, and pretty soon—well, those bugs don't ever want any more of my potato vines."

"Why not?" asked Nurse Jane. "Because the Paris green gives them a terrible tooth ache and better than that are worse," answered the bunny gentleman. "So, when I saw, over in the corner of my farm that the potato bugs were chewing the vines, I said it was too bad. But I'll fix 'em. I'm going for Paris green now."

So Uncle Wiggily went to the store for the green powder, which was to make the bugs leave his vines alone.

"Paris green?" Certainly, Mr. Long-ears said the monkey doodle gentleman the store. "Here you are, and to have the bunny a nice package of the powder which had such a nice color."

But listen, as the telephone girl says. Don't ever any of you try to eat Paris green just because it is such a pretty color, for it would make you feel worse than a potato bug.

With the bag of green stuff under his paw, Uncle Wiggily hopped along on his way back to the farm. He was sort of laughing to himself when he thought what a surprise he would give those potato bugs when all of a sudden, from behind a stump, he heard some one sighing and crying as they said:

"Oh, dear! Isn't it just too bad for anything? It was so pretty before and now look at it!"

"Look at it!" Look at what? What's the matter?" asked the bunny gentleman, peeping up from behind a stump.

"It's the skilley-scully alligator!" answered Susie Littlefoot, the bunny girl, who had been doing the sighing and crying.

"What? The skilley-scully alligator?" cried the bunny gentleman, making his pink nose twinkle so fast that it looked like a postage stamp. "Oh, we must run! He'll eat you! He'll get me sure!"

"Oh, no he won't," slowly said Susie. "But he took that what he did?"

"He did," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, he said, 'I was wearing my new hat with the bright green ribbon on it. I was walking along over the top of the stump.'"

The skilley-scully alligator must have thought it was a bit of green cabbage or lettuce, for the first I knew he pulled off the ribbon and ran away chewing it."

"Well, it is better to have the chew the ribbon than to have the green ribbon off my hat," said Uncle Wiggily. "I know the skilley-scully alligator was a bit of green cabbage or lettuce, for the first I knew he pulled off the ribbon and ran away chewing it."

"Yes, you are right," said Uncle Wiggily. "But oh, dear! My nice hat! Without that pretty green ribbon on it what shall I look like? I was a bunny gentleman. Whistlewobble, the duck girl, is giving, and now I can't go. Oh, dear!" and Susie cried.

"You shall go," said Uncle Wiggily. "Wait a minute. I'll soon make a green ribbon for your hat."

Quickly he pulled out his pocket handkerchief. This he tore into strips and then he colored them with the Paris green he had bought for the potato bugs, mixing the powder with some water.

"There you are, Susie," cried the bunny girl, as he held up the green ribbons he had made. "Put them on your new hat, and go to the party. And give all the animal children my love."

So Susie did, and she was very happy, and every one said it was just fine of Uncle Wiggily to do what he had done. Then the bunny gentleman sprinkled Paris green on his potato vines, and the bugs ran away after taking only a few toothaches. They did not like a green toothache.

So this teaches us we never can tell what color is going to be fashionable until we see it on a lady's hat. And, if the automobile doesn't run over the tin horn and make it squeak like a rubber doll with a whistle in its back, the next story will be about Uncle Wiggily and the bees—Copyright, 1914, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Relaxation

CAN YOU RELAX absolutely five minutes at a time, three times a day? If you can, it will go a long way toward making and keeping you beautiful.

Last week I stood on the street corner downtown, watching the girls going home. The shops were closing, it was the time of day when all classes are mingled together, all in a rush homeward. A few late shoppers were scurrying along—you could see in their eyes plans for a hastily gotten-up dinner—salesgirls were anxious to get away from business, more fortunately provided for women were hastening uptown to dress for dinner. And every face was lined and pale, drawn from the strain of the day, whether it had been work or pleasure.

Try taking five-minute snatches of rest for your beauty's sake

Honnette rode home with me—Joannette works in a large store, as head stenographer. She looked as tired as the others. "Rest," she scoffed, when I asked her whether she couldn't relax during the day. "Rest? Where? From 8:30 till noon, not a chance with all my work. At noon, between lunch and the shopping I always have to do, my hour is gone; from then till closing I'm busy." She thought the argument settled.

However, most days could stand five minutes taken off the shopping. And every day she could throw herself on the bed for the same period tensed nerves, to relax tired muscles. Most large shops have rest rooms with big chairs and couches where the girls can snatch five minutes' rest. Some shops even have "relief periods" of half an hour during the day. All working places should have.

I am eighteen, and have small, pretty hands. I am going to take up typewriting and stenography, and want to know whether handling a typewriter all day will make my hands coarse and large?—Marie.

HOROSCOPE

ACCORDING to astrology the early hours of this day are fortunate for enterprise. Jupiter rules strongly for good, but Mars has evil all the evening.

All commercial activities have a stimulating rule, which promises profits. Agriculture has a sign indicating good prices, but certain crop disappointments. Unseasonable weather may be expected and sudden changes of temperature even in midsummer.

Fluctuations in the stock market and surprising operations are prognosticated.

Mars will continue to exercise power over the United States through the month, the seers declare. The influence of the planet will be seen, however, in warlike demonstrations instead of real war, although loss of life is indicated. This may be the result of labor troubles.

How Nuxated Iron Helped Me To Whip Frank Moran

Jess Willard Tells Secret of His Easy Victory. Also reveals hitherto untold secret of his great triumph over Jack Johnson; Says Iron is Greatest of All Strength Builders

Ordinary Nuxated Iron will often increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent, in two weeks time.

SPECIAL NOTE—Dr. E. Sauer, a well known physician who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been especially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard, and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

New York—Upon being interviewed at his apartment in the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said: "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I should never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while training for my bout with Frank Moran, I regularly took nuxated iron, and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning so easily."

Continuing, Dr. Sauer said: "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions."

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old, and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man in fact a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 20 he was in bad health; at 45 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 59 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and make a connection with nuxated iron, simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from anæmia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause

I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance.

"HAVE a seat," said the great detective. "You are the president of the Interurban Electric Railway company."

"Wonderful! How in the world—" "Very simple," smiled the great detective. "You just handed me your card."

"It is rather simple," admitted his visitor. "But I have a matter which I solemnly think you will find up easy. This morning there was a break in the trolley wire at Six and Strunk streets. There still is, for that matter, for I sent Rafferty with the emergency wagon to repair it, and two hours later I learned that the emergency wagon never even reached the spot, and Rafferty and the wagon had disappeared as though the earth had swallowed them. And meanwhile traffic is tied up, with thousands of men wanting to get out to the ball park to see the double header."

The great detective knitted his brows, then chuckled them.

"An emergency wagon is one of those high ones, is it not?" he asked. "Nineteen feet high," replied the president of the U. E. C.

The great detective leaped to his feet, crying, "Follow me."

His client obeyed, and the great detective led him to the ball park. In the street outside the bleacher fence a red trolley repair wagon stood, and it top framework, nineteen feet above street level, as black with men. One of them, with the voice of a Rafferty, was shouting, "Here 'yare here 'yare, climb up for fifteen cents! See the double-header for fifteen cents!"

Nature Often Needs Help to Hold Health

The first requirement is to offer something that will not harm the sufferer by poisoning the system or creating a habit-appetite that may lead to a worse condition.

That is one reason why Beckman's Alternative, for more than twenty years a successful treatment in pulmonary, asthmatic and bronchial troubles, has attained success.

It is absolutely safe to take. It contains nothing to poison one or induce a habit. Yet its combination of calcium chloride is such that most persons can assimilate it easily.

If you are suffering from the serious effects of a neglected cold or in the grip of despondent pulmonary infection, a trial is worth while.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Farmit (double strength), take this home, add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful 4 times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat.
